ENLISTMENT NOW OPEN TO YOUTHS OF 17 YEARS

The recent announcement that boys who have attained the age of seventeen years may be enlisted in active units or formations of the Canadian army for the purpose of undergoing training, brought a flood of applications by personal calls and correspondence with the District Recruiting Office in Calgary, and the sub-recruiting offices in the cities of Edmonton and Lethbridge, it was announced at head quarters of Military District No. 13 today.

It is provided that boys who apply for enlistment and are accepted, will not be sent beyond Canada to a zone of military operations before having reached the full age established for this purpose for soldiers of the Canadian army, which is nineteen.

It is particularly stressed that before boys of seventeen years make application for enlistment, they MUST come to the recruiting office with their BIRTH CERTIFICATES as well as a LETTER GIVING CONSENT TO ENLISTMENT, signed by both parents, or the guardian.

In pointing out the details of this, the District Recruiting Officer said that lads of seventeen simply cannot be enlisted without some tangible proof that they are of age, and have the consent of their parents or guardian. If they apply for enlistment without this information, they will simply take up the time of the authorities, who will have to send them away until such time as they produce the evidence required.

With regard to pay, boys who are accepted in the Canadian army will be entitled to receive boys' rates of pay (70c a day), until attaining the age of 17½ years, after which they will be entitled to regular standard rates of pay as soldiers, starting at $1.30 per day. It is further provided those accepted will be permitted to claim dependant's allowance for parents and guardians in the usual way.

Mr. Lloyd Robinson received word last week of the sudden death of his sister of North Dakota, who was attacked by a paralytic stroke, which caused her death. Mr. Robinson left immediately after receiving the sad news to attend the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Barros who operated the Chinook Hotel for the past five years, left this week with their two granddaughters for Drumheller, where they will visit for a time at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Bangs before returning to their farm at Bindloss. Mrs. Barros assisted greatly with Red Cross and other social affairs.

School opened Monday with all the teachers present.

J. C. Charyk B.Sc. & B.E who spent his Christmas vacation at the home of his parents at Lethbridge returned Sunday.

Miss Edler, Intermediate teacher spent the holidays at her home near Youngstown.

The Rum Plan

IN RECENT MONTHS the subject of taxation has become of vital concern to all Canadians. Everyone realizes the tremendous cost of keeping the country at war, and there is general recognition too, of the advantages of the "pay as you go" system now used to finance our war effort. However, the rapid increase in direct taxation since the beginning of the war has affected everyone with an income, and the present income tax has brought it to the highest level in the history of our country. Canada's income tax now compares very closely to that paid by the people of Britain, and it is higher than any that has yet been paid by the people of the United States. On the whole, Canadians have not grumbled at this means of contributing to the winning of the war, although it has meant a general adjustment of the standard of living, entailing varying degrees of sacrifice. However, we could stand many times this sacrifice without suffering hardships comparable in any degree to those of the people now living under Axis domination, and we may still consider ourselves a fortunate country in the world as it is today.

New System Discussed For some time there has been discussion over a proposal known as "The Rum Plan." This plan is briefly, that taxpayers should pay on incomes currently being earned, not on incomes earned eight months previously, as is the present custom. This would put the taxpayer on a "pay as you go" basis and he would not be in the position of being always in arrears with the government, as he is under the system now in use. During wartime great emphasis is rightly placed on the importance of morale, and it is believed in some quarters that it is not in the best interests of the people to have them constantly in debt to the government for income tax. To most people debt is a cause of worry, and there are many instances in which these accrue in taxes may cause serious anxiety. There is the case of a person who has a suddenly reduced income, perhaps on account of retirement from active enterprise due to age. Out of the reduced income, taxes must be paid on the larger income earned in past months. There is also the case of death, where a wage earner's family may have difficulty in securing sufficient ready funds to pay the tax on the deceased person's income.

Arrears Would Be Cancelled The Rum Plan originated in the United States, but it has recently been widely discussed in Canada and is receiving considerable support. A prominent banker in his annual report delivered recently, expressed approval of the principles involved in the plan. To inaugurate it, it is proposed that the government cancel tax arrears, and put the taxpayer in the position of currently paying the tax on the income he receives. It is obvious that to change this system would cause the government considerable inconvenience and loss of revenue and there is no basis for belief that any action will be taken in the matter. It is said in financial circles, however, that the loss to the government in cancelling eight months' arrears in income tax would not be a large percentage of the total collections, and that it might be made up over a period of time, from other sources of revenue. Whether or not the plan is ever put into use here, it is of interest to most Canadians at this time.

SHIPS THAT PASS
Ships that pass in the night, and speak each other in passing,
Only a signal shown and a distant light in the darkness;
So on the ocean of life we pass and speak one another.
Only a look and a voice, then darkness again and a silence.
—Longfellow.

IN LESS TIME

Several advertisements in the New York papers offer to teach dancing in three hours. Extravagant, says the Toronto Saturday Night. The kind of dancing we see nowadays could be taught in five minutes, and then you'd be wasting time. But the old-fashioned waltz, complete with reverses—that was something.

Lifeboat Is Built In Britain In Record Time

Six Breton, refugees, by working without stop for 32 hours in a London boat-building yard, turned out a lifeboat in record time for a ship which was waiting to sail.

"One of our ships is leaving tomorrow night and we are a lifeboat short. Have you one for us?" That was the message a boat builder received from a shipping company official. The builder said he had one on the stocks which had just been started and that although he didn't think it could be completed in such short order he would have a try.

He called the Bretons and two English workers together, explained the situation to them and the ship sailed on time with its completed lifeboat.

"Khaki" is the Hindu word for "dusty" or "dust-colored", derived from the Persian word "khak", meaning dust.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

FAILURE OR SUCCESS

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand as in what direction we are moving—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

How much easier our work would be if we put forth as much effort trying to improve the quality of it as most of us do trying to find excuses for not properly attending to it—George W. Ballinger.

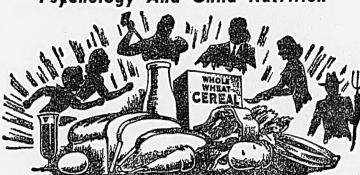

Failure indicates that energy has been poured into the wrong channel. —E. Brande.

When unconscious of a mistake, one thinks he is not mistaken; but this false consciousness does not change the fact, or its results; suffering and mistakes recur until one is aware of their cause and character.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Every failure is a step to success; every detection of what is false directs us toward what is true; every trial exhausts some tempting form of error.—William Whewell.

There is only one real failure in life that is possible, and that is, not to be true to the best one knows.—Farrar.

Psychology And Child Nutrition

Practically every child experiences some period during his life, when feeding and food become a problem—in some this is early in infancy and in others later in life; in many it passes unnoticed. Parents must approach this problem sensibly and with the proper attitude if the difficulty is to be eliminated, for children discover early in life that their refusal to eat can be a potent weapon in their hands. Parents can keep a cool head and calm the child and the whole family quickly, so that he will be able to hold the center of the stage has failed and no more trouble will be experienced.

Far too often the dinner table is made a battleground or an amusement park. Scoldings or the bringing up of unpleasant incidents which have occurred during the day should be avoided for they play havoc with both appetite and mood. The mother, too, who makes the other members of the family indulge in circus antics in order to get little Tommy to eat his dinner is making a bad mistake.

Nutrition authorities tell us that it does no harm to treat the child as one would treat an adult; allow him to have some food—preferably a meal which he will eat with only strengthen the dislike for these particular foods, but will make all eating unpleasant. Try to substitute foods and menus which the child does like. Adults frequently have the satisfaction of choosing from a variety of menus in restaurants—why should not the child have similar satisfaction in exercising some degree of choice in his meals? And, after all, Popeye the sailor has said that this does not mean that spinach is the only way that Jimmy can get his quota of nutritive elements.

New foods should be introduced slowly and in small amounts, since the eventual attitude of the child toward food will depend much on the way in which the food is first presented. Too much regularly makes eating a tiresome task which he will avoid.

Every child should be permitted to enjoy the feeling of mild hunger that stimulates appetite—yet many parents insist upon feeding their children so often and so much that they never experience the pleasurable sensation of being hungry and the even more enjoyable sensation of satisfying this hunger. On the other hand a healthy child should on occasions have the desire to eat the ice-cream. Skipping a meal or two has never hurt any healthy child and is often desirable.

SCRAP

now guarantee for months ahead a steady supply of steel casings vital to Canada's war production.

"As one executive engaged on priority contracts, I think it only just that the people of the Prairies should be informed of the true value of the scrap they have turned over; equally I hope all Canadians will be made appropriately aware of the invaluable contribution the West thus made.

Western scrap metals, recently collected, will prevent many an Eastern war plant from being throttled in production, says Harold P. Coplan, president of Hull Steel Foundations, Ltd., who as written Wartime Salvage, Ltd., of Ottawa, that the West merits the thanks of all Canada for its invaluable contribution to beating the Axis. Mr. Coplan's letter says:

"Thousands of tons of steel scrap which you have allotted to Hull Steel Foundations, Ltd., now have reached our plant and insure full-time operation of our foundry during the entire winter ahead."

"I understand this scrap was collected in a drive which your corporation staged recently throughout the Prairie Provinces. I feel I cannot allow the occasion to pass without extending to our fellow-Canadians of the West the sincere congratulations of Hull Steel Foundations, Ltd., upon the magnificent response they have made to your appeal for material so essential to maintaining the flow of 'tools' to our boys and our allies."

Beyond question, a number of war plants might well have been throttled in their production for want of raw material, if not for the timely help that came out of the West. In the case of Hull Steel Foundations, we can to our country's war effort.

CATTLE SHRINKAGE

(Dominion Range Experimental Station
Manyberries, Alberta)

One objection to early summer marketing of cattle has been the belief that shrinkage is so high on cattle coming off green grass that it tends to offset any advantage in price. This applies particularly to steers as they seldom have the finish that helpers would grade as high in July as in September. If they lacked sufficient finish in July to make comparable grades to those which they would make in September, this might not be true. In the case of dry cows that have been well wintered, there is a greater advantage in early marketing.

Both cows and helpers off grass over a long run period will return more if marketed by the fore-part of September rather than waiting until October or November. Daily gains after the middle of September are comparatively small, and the bottom of the market usually occurs in October and November.

Summer marketing will rule out the possibility of encountering early fall storms with their resulting heavy shrinkage. It should also be borne in mind that laying cows and helpers marketed as soon as they are fat in the early summer will leave just that much more grass for the balance of the herd.

The average gain in weight of two year old helpers from late June until
